

Joyce, on driving 160 km to see the dentist.

~ No. 3 in a series of testimonial accounts for Whistler Dental ~

There are plenty of dentists in the Lower Mainland. And yet, since chipping a tooth over dinner here 13 years ago, Joyce Wright has chosen to drive 160 km from her Cloverdale home to appointments at Whistler Dental. "Dr. McKenzie has shown me that my mouth is an integral part of my whole health," says Joyce, who after several crowns, root canals and dental implants is now being treated by Dr. McKenzie for sleep apnea. After 10 years of avoiding all dentistry, even her husband now makes the two-hour drive. Which leads us to the question: How far will you come?
